Online Advertorial:
Your expert contribution in an editorial environment!
Online Advertorial

Position your message in the form of an advertorial on your topic on Power & Beyond

Solution-oriented content in the context of our editorial contributions ensures optimal attention from the reader.

The advertorial is a native advertising measure. Native advertising refers to the placement of advertising content that is marked as such but is designed in the look and feel of the editorial environment. An online advertorial is therefore similar to an editorial article, but the customer determines the entire content.

A campaign supplements the advertorial to ensure reach. The components include ads in the editorial newsletter, social media campaigns, ads in the topic-related environment and a playout on the home page for three days. If required, we can create your technical contribution based on your briefing (included in the campaign price).

See page 22 for exact format requirements.
Online Advertorial

Goal
The online advertorial campaign is suitable for positioning yourself as a solution provider in an existing and new target group. By setting backlinks in the advertorial, the readers of the advertorial can be redirected to your target URL.

Advantages
• In the advertorial no advertisement (banner) of other companies is played.
• Increased credibility with the reader by presenting editorial content in the look and feel.
• An optimized SEO preparation of the advertorial ensures good findability via search engines.
• High retention time and intensive involvement of the readers.
• In the advertorial - in contrast to editorial articles - striking and click-strong buttons with a link to your product page can be integrated.
